Fall News Editor Dies In Summer Accident

Donations are mounting for the Gary L. Larsen Memorial Scholarship Fund For Journalism Students at OU.

Larsen... News editor

Mr. Larsen died August 23 following an accident at Ak-Sar-Ben where he was employed for the summer. Authorities at Ak-Sar-Ben said he fell from the back of a truck on which he was working. He was taken to a local hospital where he died eight hours later.

Mr. Larsen's mother, Mrs. Melba Larsen, said she thought a fund of this nature would be the most fitting way to preserve her son's memory at the university.

A 21-year-old junior in the department of journalism, he would have been news editor of the Gateway this semester.

Contributions to the Memorial Fund may be made at the Student Personnel office, Room 240 Adm.

Board Of Regents Active During Summer Months

During the summer the OU Board of Regents instructed architects to proceed with plans for a new five-story science building that may be completed at this time in 1970.

In June the United States office of Education approved a $438,000 grant for the building, which will house the Department of Biology. Regents then authorized an application for an additional $625,000 in Federal money for a three-story addition to the building. The money will be matched by $1,250,000 in OU funds.

Construction of the science building might begin in February or March, 1968, with a total cost of about $3,175,000.

Regents also reappointed C. F. Moulton and Robert M. Spire to second four-year terms. Both men completed their first four-year terms during the summer.

The board also established a Frederick W. Kayser Chair of Marketing and named Charles M. Bull, head of the Department of Marketing, as the recipient.

OU already has Kayser chairs in finance and economics. The chairs, established under a trust fund, provide $1,200 in salary and $800 in research money to the recipients.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Regents is Thursday, September 21, at 12 p.m. in the Student Center Faculty Lounge.

New Draft Law Sets New Deferment Rules

New procedures will be followed for the granting of undergraduate student deferments. The Selective Service System has announced in accordance with the Military Selective Service Act of 1967.

It is now up to the student to fill out an application requesting deferment.

The student must also provide, to his local draft board, convincing evidence that he is continuing to pursue satisfactorily a full-time course of instruction at a college, university or similar institution of learning.

To be considered as "satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction," an undergraduate student who is taking a four-year course should earn 25 per cent of the credits required for his baccalaureate degree at the end of his first academic year, 50 per cent at the end of his second academic year, and 75 per cent at the end of his third year. In the case of a baccalaureate degree for which five years of study are prescribed by the institution, a student should earn 20 per cent each year of the total credits required for the degree.

The school has the primary responsibility for determining a student's full time status and the satisfactory pursuit of his course of instruction. The percentages established are intended as a guideline in order to achieve greater uniformity in the certification given by different institutions and to guide local boards in the classification process.

The 1967 act also provides for the definition of the academic year as a 12 month period. This 12 month deferment allows for flexibility in the planning of a student's course of study.

Presumably a student whose academic load must be lightened during the college year would thus be able to utilize the summer months to make up any deficiencies.

"Although these new procedures will do away with the former procedures involving tests and class standing, the student will be wise to remember that he must maintain full-time status and be in good standing with OU," said Dean of Student Personnel Don Pfisterer.

Applications for undergraduate student deferment are available in the Student Personnel office, Room 240, Adm.

Indians Hunting For Bison

The University of Omaha football team will open its 1967 season Saturday against the hard hitting North Dakota State Bison at Rosenblatt Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

The Bisons hope to continue another 24 game winning streak at the Indians expense. The Bisons lost 19 lettermen, ten which were starters and little All-American tackle, Walt Odegaard.

However, North Dakota State won't be anybody's door mat even though they are young and inexperienced in many key positions on offense and defense.

Their running attack will be centered around little All-American Ken Rota. Rota was honorable mention last year after making the All-American team his sophomore year.

Other returning starters from an 8-2 season last year are quarterback Terry Hanson and guard John Heller.

Omaha has played the Bisons on five occasions and their only victory came in the first encounter in 1935. The Indians won 20-6. The last meeting of the two teams was in 1941 in which North Dakota State emerged with a 13-6 victory.

North Dakota was the nation's leading small college team until the final two weeks of the season when they were upset by San Diego State, the eventual national champions and Northern Iowa.

The game promises to be a thriller and will give fans an opportunity to see the Indians running from the new I formation.

Omaha U. assistant coaches Don Watchorn and Carl Meyers scouted the Bisons last week in their first game against Montana State in Great Falls, Montana.

Tomahawk Needs Help

Any student interested in working on the 1968 Tomahawk staff is invited to apply to Virginia Frank, yearbook advisor, or Jan Voelte, editor.

Applications should include name, grade, major, previous journalism work, and special interests. They may be turned in at the Tomahawk office, Room 115, Engg., or to Virginia Frank, Room 331A, Adm.

New Students — Saturday is New Student Day at Omaha University.

The newcomers, 1,500 are expected to attend the orientation, will be addressed by President Naylor and the Deans of the colleges, in the Fieldhouse at 9 a.m.

During the day, the students can obtain information on university organizations from 22 booths which will be set up in the Student Center.

Participating organizations are AIEE, Angel Flight, Arnold Air Society, ASCE, Biology Club, Christian Science Organization, Home Economics Club, Indians and Intercollegiate Council. Completing the list are Interfraternity Council, International Student Organization, Imapuoes, Newman Club, Panhellenic Council, Student Council, Student Union Board, Waakya, Women's Recreation Association and Young Republicans.

Registration To Begin Today

Fall registration is again arranged so that a student can pick up his packet, fill out his cards, get counseled and register.

The official schedule for registration is as follows:

September 11 — Those enrolling in evening classes only are to register during the assigned time as determined by the first letter of the last name as follows:

4 to 5	PM	M,N,O
5 to 6	PM	P,Q,R
6 to 7	PM	S,T
7 to 7:30	PM	U,V,W,X,Y,Z

September 12 — 7:30 AM to 9:30 AM students who are taking day classes who have 110 or more academic hours earned officially on their record as shown on their latest grade report, who were enrolled in the Spring Semester 1967 or Summer 1967.

9:30 to Noon — Students as described above who have 84 or more academic hours earned.

1 till 3 PM — Students as described above who have 58 or more academic hours earned.

4 to 7:30 PM — Those enrolling in evening classes are to register during the assigned time as determined by the first letter of the last name as follows:

4 to 5	PM	A,B

OU's 59th Year Brings Merger Increased Enrollment Problems

September 7 marked the official beginning of the 59th year of the University of Omaha.

"We are looking forward to this year with optimism, creativity and imagination," said the ninth OU president Dr. Kirk E. Naylor at a news briefing session last Thursday.

Dr. Naylor became the ninth and, perhaps, last OU President at the commencement on June 5.

This year may also see the start of unified education in the state of Nebraska.

Voters in Omaha will go to the polls to vote on a proposal which will create a University of Nebraska at Omaha, early in December, probably on December 12.

This is the same day that the city of Omaha has chosen to put a $12,650,000 improvement bond program before the voters.

The date has not yet been officially set for the merger election because LB 736, the law which authorizes the election won't become law until 90 days after the Legislature's adjournment. The adjournment date was July 22.

Promising a vigorous campaign, Naylor added that OU will work in close cooperation with the city and will ask that the "people vote yes" at the election. He also said that private money will be used for OU's campaign.

One of the major problems that the university will have to face this year is the pressing problem of physical space to handle the students.

OU Registrar Virgil Sharp said that the anticipated enrollment this fall "the largest in OU's history," is expected to be in excess of 9,000.

Building additional classrooms would help to ease the squeeze problem. The Nebraska Higher Education Facilities Commission will act on OU's request for additional money to finance the construction of a five-story science building east of the Engineering building. If the request is okayed ground-breaking will start this fall, but the

59th Year: Merger, Problems

$3,000,000 building will not be ready for the 1968-69 academic year, when 11,500 students are expected to enroll. OU asked for $400,000 from the commission.

A second problem the university faces is "the development of an academic program to fulfill the role of a university in an urban center."

"We must be able to meet the needs of the students who attend OU, to provide them with quality education at a reasonable cost," said Dr. Naylor. He added that the merger will help to establish a reasonable cost.

Sharp commented that the change in the draft regulations may make a difference in the total hours taken by the students, but the "enrollment should reach the 1965 peak and go over this."

Merger Vote Dec. 12

The question of the merger between the University of Omaha and the University of Nebraska will be decided by the voters of the city of Omaha at an election on December 12.

"The regents feel that these things should be decided at a joint election," said Robert M. Spire, OU Regents president.

OU President, Dr. Kirk E. Naylor said he liked the idea because the city and the university would share the cost of the special election.

Dr. Naylor said he did not feel the inclusion of the bond issues on the ballot would have a negative effect on the outcome of the merger vote.

Indians Ready For Warpath

The Omaha University Indians concluded their pre-season training last Saturday with some of the hardest hitting in several years of pre-season conditioning in preparation for their game Saturday with North Dakota State at Rosenblatt Stadium.

Highlights of the scrimmage and pre-season training has been the outstanding heads-up-play of the much improved defensive unit, especially the secondary of Pat Smagacz, Lew Garrison, Gary Paporello, and Rich Redlinger.

Garrison, Paporello and Smagacz were selected to the CIC second defensive team a year ago.

Other returning CIC second team selections are defensive stalwart Stan (Buddy) Belitz and Rick Davis and Bernie Kanger on offense.

Promising rookies that have moved into starting positions are rookie guard Tim McGill, 6-0 freshman from Omaha Creighton Prep, Rich Luger, 238 pounder from Jersey City, N.J. and Mike Goodman, 6-3 267, from Omaha Tech.

Goodman, a defensive tackle is the largest lineman on the team. Other beefy Indians are John Brennan, 256, Clarence Minnehall, 253, Ted Kendzierski, 245 and Fernando Mesa, 226 pounds.

Included in the 28 returning lettermen is ALL-CIC quarterback Marlin Briscoe who missed last year due to a neck injury that has healed completely. Relieving Briscoe at the quarterback spot will be cool Gary Peters who showed well in the spring game and has made steady progress.

The other quarterback candidates are senior, Ray Shaw, sophomore Mike Danze, 5-7, 150 and freshman Rocco Gonnella.

Briscoe's running mates on offense will be halfback Ron Sayers who gained 233 yards for a 3.1 average last year, and either senior lettermen Rick Davis or Steve Haborak at fullback.

Haborak is a converted defensive back and Davis was the teams leading ground gainer a year ago and a top pass receiver.

Tom McKernam, 6-4, 216, switched from end to flanker, will man the other backfield position.

The depth situation for the Indians is considered a strong point with nine returning starters on offense and defense all with at least a year or two experience.

The chief weakness of the Indians is in the line where Bernie Kanger and Oscar Pulliam are the lone experienced players. However, Rick Shuckman, two year letterman from Cincinnati, Ohio and newcomers Mel Washington and transfer Kerry Larma may help solve the problem.

At Ring Side

Rudy Smith

For three weeks head football coach Al (Lombardi) Caniglia has been putting his beefy or should one say politely muscular football players through the meat grinder twice daily in preparation for the rugged season.

The ten game schedule gives the Indians a chance to redeem themselves after finishing in the CIC cellar last year.

But even with Marlin (the Magician) Briscoe back in uniform the crystal ball according to sportscasters, etc. foresee Fort Hayes (Kans.) and Pittsburg (Kans.) State as repeat CIC champs for another season. Each finished 3-1 in conference play and 7-2 overall.

If Marlin has any magical tricks to perform they surely won't be mediocre, and neither will the team's performance, but seeing is believing. The first game is September 16 or just plain old Saturday.

But this Saturday is one you don't want to miss. The reason—the team has been conducting a revival session football style everyday at practice and if you want to take a part be sure to come early.

One thing is certain and that is that your attendance and lively participation won't help the morale of the opponent. See you there.

Practice In Cafeteria?

This may be a little premature but it is worth at least a comment. Fort Hayes has been having three-a-day workouts and after each practice session each player was timed in 40-yard dashes and a mile run. Maybe they're trying to impress us?

With six players listed in the 150-160 pound bracket and four being starters it might not be a bad idea to start holding practices in the cafeteria.

Punting By Hand

There was a rumor going around last year near the end of the school term that the intramural program will expand its football program.

Don't get too anxious because the expanded program doesn't include the WRA but rather experimental knee football.

It's played on two adjacent wrestling mats 24x48 feet and add an additional six feet on each end for the end zone and you'll have your playing field.

According to intramural director Bert Kurth, "It's played the same way flag football is played, 25 play halves, but all the TD runs have to be ran on knees."

Anyone for knee pads?

Penalties — there is a one foot penalty for offsides and a three foot penalty for ruffing the kicker who will do all his place kicking and field goal kicking by hand.

Can you imagine walking into class with your hand all bandaged up and the professor asking what happened to your hand?

You reply, "It was injured in the process of attempting a punt by hand."

Mr. Kurth said that he will have one league consisting of four teams but, "if it's successful and there is enough interest we'll put together another league of four teams."

Note: It only takes five players to constitute a team.

The Rush Is On

The rush has started for new sorority members.

Rushing activities began last Saturday evening with a Panhellenic tea at 6 in Room 312 of the student center.

Following the tea, more than 130 hopefuls were invited to see displays set up by the four sororities in various rooms. Invitations to other parties were then issued.

The parties will continue until Thursday which is called Silent Day.

Rushes must sign their preference as to which sorority they wish to join. There must be no contact between the sorority members and rushees. Membership bids will be sent out special delivery Thursday night.

Formal rushing activities will cease when the girls pick up their ribbons designating acceptance Friday morning. A tea will follow in the ballroom at 1:30 for the new pledges.

Open bidding will continue throughout the year. Girls interested in being rushed should contact the Panhellenic Council. Officers are Bev Grasso, president; Sue Zimmer, vice-president; Sue Rothwell, secretary and Diane Desler, treasurer.

Voelte ... New editor

Voelte Named As Yearbook Editor

Janet Voelte, a senior English major, has been named editor of the 1968 Tomahawk.

Her appointment follows the resignation of Lothar A. Luken. Luken had accepted the editorship of OU's yearbook last March but he decided to finish his education in California.

Miss Voelte was chosen by Virginia Frank, who replaced Dr. Paul V. Peterson as the faculty advisor of the Tomahawk. Dr. Robert Harper, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and Warren T. Franke, journalism department.

Dr. Peterson had resigned from the OU faculty to teach at Ohio State University.

"Having never worked on a yearbook before, it will be challenging and I'm scared," said Miss Voelte.

Last year Miss Voelte was on the Grain of Sand Editorial Board and a member of the Young Democrats.

Traywick Case Resolved Following Lengthy Suit

The Leland Traywick case came to an end last summer after almost eight months of disputes.

Dr. Traywick's lawsuit against OU for severance pay was dismissed July 12 by District Judge Rudolph Tesar. The former OU president whose suit called for $31,396, settled for $22,500.

Dr. Traywick is now under a one-year contract, as of September 1, at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. He will receive $14,400 as a professor of business administration and director of the bureau of business research.

As OU president, Dr. Traywick was paid 25 thousand dollars a year.

The $22,500 settlement was approved by the Board of Regents along with a $3,000 payment to Marvin P. Walenz to settle his 63-hundred-dollar claim against OU for attorneys' fees.

Mr. Walenz, president of Monarch Chemical, Monarch Oil and Monarch Asphalt Companies of Omaha, filed suit to block Dr. Traywick's pay after the regents announced early last December that the president was quitting and was to be paid his salary through January, 1968.

Seymour Smith, attorney for OU, said the lawyer's fees "seemed to all concerned and to the court to be a fair amount."

He said the payment was "reasonable, under the circumstances. You have to look at the larger picture of getting the Traywick case settled."
